Seminars & Modules with Capacity Constrains

Seminars
In the course catalogue titled as “Seminar” or “Blockseminar”; seminars are more interactive than lectures, i.e. students get to discuss and prepare presentations.

Please be informed that seminars are very different from lectures in structure and requirement and that they are a special challenge for students. You should only decide for a seminar if you have already achieved deeper knowledge of the subject of the course and if your level of the language of instruction is very good. This is also the reason why we especially advice Bachelor students not to take master seminars. In general we recommend to concentrate on lectures.

Capacity Constrains
This information is mentioned on the QIS website as well as in the course list, please have a closer look in the description there.

Exam registration takes place until the 21st April 2021
• Please note that you are limited to register up to three of these courses at most. This rule is unfortunately made, because national students are obliged to take a seminar and the capacity of the students at the Faculty.
• You are welcome to register for the courses, but we cannot guarantee you a place
• Other Deadlines or rules on QIS can be ignored if the registration is normally via QIS
